Initial List of Certified EHR Products Is Available Online

Information posted November 17, 2010

The Office of the National Coordinator for Health Information Technology (ONC) has released the initial list of certified electronic health record (EHR) products that comply with meaningful use eligibility requirements for the EHR Incentive Payment program. The Certified Health IT Product List includes products that have been tested and certified to meet Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) meaningful use criteria.

The list will help providers explore their options for EHR software as they take the first steps in becoming compliant with meaningful use standards. The ONC will update the certified product list often. Providers should refer to the ONC webpage for the most up-to-date information.

Providers may refer to the following resources to get help and learn more about the Health IT Initiative of the Texas Health and Human Services Commission (HHSC):

- Sign up for e-mail updates about HHSC’s Health IT initiative.
- Visit the Health IT webpage for more information, upcoming webinars, events, and answers to questions.
